Vancouver, January 22, 2020 - Canada Rare Earth Corp. (TSXV: LL) ("Canada Rare Earth" or the "Company") is pleased to announce that pursuant to the multi-faceted agreement (the "Agreement") announced on December 19, 2019 the Company and its partners have paid the first instalment of US$600,000 towards the US$11 million contract price for purchase of mineral sands in South America. The balance is payable in monthly instalments of US$100,000 starting September 2020.

Canada Rare Earth and its partners own 20% and 80%, respectively, of CREC South American Holdings Corp. ("CREC SAH") which in turn owns 100% of CanBras Minerals Ltda. ("CanBras"). In December 2019 CanBras entered the Agreement which in part includes (i) purchasing existing mineral sands tailings situated on 590 hectares accumulated over 25 years of mining, (ii) leasing for 26 years a 9,960 hectare property which includes the 590 hectares and (iii) purchasing all future tailings derived from mining activities conducted on the 9,960 hectare property.

The Agreement also authorizes CanBras to utilize existing permits and licenses necessary to process the tailings and provides CanBras with the right of first refusal to purchase the mineral rights underlying the 9,960 hectares.

Chris Goodman, head of Canada Rare Earth's South American operations, stated, "CanBras has been working with a number of prospective operators at site during the past 6 months and we are now excited to finalize the selection process. Our clients are committed to purchasing all of our resultant enhanced concentrate."

Tracy A. Moore, Chief Executive Officer of Canada Rare Earth, explained, "We are looking at these tailings as an integral component of the proprietary source of concentrate we are securing for our integrated rare earth and complementary products supply chain. Through concentrate enhancement and processing our business will add value to the products thereby enhancing value to our shareholders and stakeholders."
