Q4 and FY 2020 Diamond Sales

As previously reported, Q4 2020 diamond sales totaled 957,120 carats sold at an average value of $84 per carat (US$65 per carat) for total proceeds of $80.2 million (US$61.7 million) in comparison to 771,799 carats sold at an average value of $84 per carat (US$64 per carat) for total proceeds of $65.0 million (US$49.2 million) in Q4 2019.

During FY 2020, 3,329,289 carats were sold at an average value of $68 per carat (US$51 per carat) for total proceeds of $227.0 million (US$171.3 million) in comparison to 3,284,520 carats sold at an average value of $84 per carat (US$63 per carat) for total proceeds of $276.3 million (US$208.2 million) in FY 2019.

Sentiment in the rough diamond market was more positive towards the end of 2020 and has remained so as the market prepares for the first selling cycle of 2021.

The Company's medium- to long-term outlook for rough diamonds, remains positive. The major producers reported lower levels of sales through 2020 which, together with the stronger retail selling season, will help normalize inventory levels in the cutting centers. In addition, the recent closure of the high-volume Argyle diamond mine will help to establish a more balanced supply and demand equilibrium in the diamond market. Importantly, consumer confidence and retail spending over the consumer season was particularly strong in Greater China while US sales were reasonably strong despite difficult COVID-19 conditions throughout the period. Together these two markets account for approximately 65% by value of global retail sales of diamond jewelry.

Q4 and FY 2020 Summary

Q4 and FY 2020 production results compared to same periods last year, and specifically the total ore and waste tonnes mined, continue to be affected as a direct result of the impacts of COVID-19 on mine operations. As previously announced, reduced levels of personnel, travel restrictions to and from site, revised health and safety protocols on site, and new operating procedures to reduce the risk of COVID-19 are some of the key driving factors in the lower production figures. Under the circumstances with all the additional protocols, we are satisfied with the quarterly and annual production results.

Recovered carats for FY 2020 came in higher than the revised guidance of 6.3 to 6.4 million carats, attributable to the strong operational performance in Q3 2020. Q4 was more difficult with cases of COVID-19 on site necessitating additional preventative measures affecting productivity.

Stuart Brown, the Company's President and Chief Executive Officer, commented:

"Under very difficult circumstances, all driven by COVID-19, the Gahcho Kué Mine has performed well in being able to maintain production albeit at a reduced level and came very close to the revised guidance in tonnes mined and treated and exceeded the revised guidance target for carats recovered. The carat recovery was particularly pleasing under the circumstances and will place us in a good position for sales in the first quarter of 2021.

"The diamond market came under unprecedented pressure from early March to early September and although this pressure remains, we did see a strong recovery with respect to rough diamond demand in the last quarter of the year. The two sales during the last quarter saw significant price recovery across all categories of diamonds sold. Early diamond jewelry retail sales reports are encouraging, and we expect to see steady demand for rough diamonds in the first quarter of 2021. There will no doubt still be challenges ahead but we are certainly more positive in our outlook as we start 2021 compared to the middle of 2020.

With respect to production targets for 2021 we remain focused on maintaining the health and safety of all our employees and contractors as we continue to manage the impacts of COVID-19 at site. We are finalizing all the metrics and will update the market when we have more certainty on the steady state performance of the mine as we hopefully exit the impact of COVID-19 during the coming year. We look forward to keeping all stakeholders updated throughout 2021."
